From the Pastor

S. I. McMillen, in his book None of These Diseases, tells a story of a young woman who wanted to go to college, but her heart sank when she read the question on the application blank that asked, "Are you a leader?" Being both honest and conscientious, she wrote, "No," and returned the application, expecting the worst. To her surprise, she received this letter from the college: "Dear Applicant: A study of the application forms reveals that this year our college will have 1,452 new leaders. We are accepting you because we feel it is imperative that they have at least one follower."

It is traditional on the fourth Sunday after Easter to use a gospel passage in which Jesus refers to himself as the Good Shepherd. Today's is by far the shortest and simplest passage of that type. But, in the first two sentences, the four verbs used to describe the relationship of Jesus to his followers tell us in a simple way some very important truths about our relationship to the Good Shepherd.

Jesus begins by saying, "My sheep hear my voice." Of course we don't sit around waiting for a voice to boom out of the heavens calling us by name. Actually, Jesus speaks to us in so many ways – as someone asks for our help; as we feel inspired to go outside our comfortable life to give our time and possessions to help another be blessed; when we suddenly understand something we've heard in the gospel a hundred times before and we are moved to invite God more completely into what we say and do.

We usually hear Jesus pretty well. We just don't want to do it. When he tells us to love our neighbor, we don't mind that. But to love our enemy! He calls us to take up our cross and follow him. And that isn't too much to consider when things are going well in our life and the cross is more theoretical. But, then what happens if we are hurt deeply by someone and they don't even think about it, or when weakness and pain become our daily companion? Hearing is not always so easy to turn into doing.

But, then Jesus says, "I know them." He knows us completely. He knows every time we've chosen to be faithful instead of sinning. He knows the times we have deliberately done something good in his name, even when no one else notices. Even when we are imperfect, when we wander far from what God wants us to be, he knows our heart, that if only we were stronger, if we knew more, our heart wants to love him even in our sinfulness.

"They follow me." We have to admit we are not always the best at following Jesus. He is the model of forgiveness; we prefer to hold a grudge. He is the model of humility, quietly serving others; we prefer to make sure to have our own way and that we don't have to do something we don't like. We ignore opportunities to do good and excuse our weakness as we choose to do wrong. Jesus is not discouraged because we are not perfect. We are here today, not because anyone forced us, but because we have chosen to follow Jesus, to sit at his feet asking for pardon and listening to his Word. And he is always there before us, calling us by name.

"I give them eternal life." Think of the scene described in the second reading, the multitude before the throne of God is so vast it cannot be counted by anyone. When God chose to bring us into existence, Jesus tells us that he had already prepared a place for us with him in that multitude. Our place there was prepared long before we did one good thing to deserve it, or chose one thing that would separate us from God. It is God's will that we be with him forever, and so we cannot be discouraged by our weakness. The Good Shepherd only asks us to be a good follower. He will lead us home.

The use of the Narthex

The liturgical norms of the United States Bishops suggest that the Narthex (main entrance) of the church be a place of welcome, where the people make the transition from the world outside and enter into the place of worship. Over the years, the Narthex of our church has come to be used for many other purposes. Often it is crowded with representatives of groups seeking members, or organizations involved in fundraising. At the suggestion of the Parish Council and after consulting the church staff, Fr. Bierschenk has decided that the Narthex area is too small to support uses other than welcoming those who enter and leave, greeting the clergy after Mass, and providing information for parishioners and guests at the Connection Point. Beginning May 1, fundraising efforts, signing up for events, and information tables will be in Angel Hall or on the breezeway outside the church. Two groups per weekend may occupy the space, which must be scheduled on the facilities calendar (email Melissa Franks mfranks@stmonicachurch.org).

Celebrate Spring and the fact that "tax day" has come and gone with breakfast burritos and sausage on a stick treats. After May, the Knights Culinary Team will be taking the summer off - so grab yours after the Masses today and remember to bring some home to your neighbors, they'll love you for it. Thanks for supporting your Knights of Columbus.

El uso del atrio Las normas litúrgicas de la Conferencia de Obispos de los Estados Unidos, sugiere que el atrio (entrada principal al templo) sea un lugar de acogimiento, donde las personas pasen del mundo exterior y entren a un lugar de oración. En los últimos años, el Atrio de la iglesia se ha usado para diferentes cosas. A menudo está muy saturado con representantes de diferentes grupos buscando reclutar nuevos miembros u organizaciones recaudando fondos. Como sugerencia del Consejo Parroquial y después de consultar con los empleados de la iglesia, el padre Bierschenk ha decidido que el atrio el cual es muy pequeño para tener todas estas actividades, sea usado solamente como un lugar de acogimiento, donde el sacerdote salude a los feligreses después de Misa y proveer información a parroquianos y visitantes en el Punto de Conexión. Comenzando el 1ero de Mayo, las actividades para recaudar fondos, inscribir para eventos y mesas de información estarán en el pasillo del Ángel o en los pasadizos afuera de la Iglesia. Solo dos grupos pueden estar cada fin de semana y deben reservar su lugar en el calendario de eventos.

De El Pastor

En su libro Ninguna de Estas Enfermedades, S. I McMillen, cuenta la historia de una mujer joven que quería ir a la universidad, pero su corazón se hundió cuando leyó la pregunta en la aplicación que preguntaba, “¿Eres un líder?” siendo honesta y consciente, escribió, “No,” y envió la registración esperando lo peor. Para su sorpresa, recibió esta carta del colegio: “Estimado aspirante: Un estudio de las formas de registro revela que este año tendremos 1,452 nuevos líderes. La estamos aceptando porque sentimos que es imprescindible que tengan por lo menos un seguidor.”

Es una tradición que el cuarto domingo después de Pascua se use el pasaje del evangelio en el cual Jesús se refiere a sí mismo como el Buen Pastor. Hoy es el pasaje más corto y simple sobre este tema. Pero las primeras dos frases, los cuatro verbos utilizados para describir la relación de Jesús con sus seguidores, nos dicen en una manera simple algunas verdades muy importantes sobre nuestra relación con el Buen Pastor.

Jesús comienza diciendo, “Mis ovejas escuchan mi voz.” Por su puesto nosotros no estamos esperando que una voz retumbe del cielo pronunciando nuestro nombre. Realmente, Jesús nos habla de diferentes maneras, cuando alguien nos pide ayuda; cuando somos inspirados a salir de nuestra vida cómoda para dar de nuestro tiempo y posesiones y ayudar a que otros sean bendecidos; cuando de repente entendemos algo que hemos escuchado más de cien veces en el evangelio y decidimos invitar a Dios para que forme parte de lo que hacemos y decimos.

Usualmente, escuchamos a Jesús muy bien, simplemente no queremos hacerlo. Cuando nos dice que amemos a nuestro hermano, no nos molesta. Pero, ¿jamar a nuestros enemigos! Nos llama a cargar nuestra cruz y seguirle. Eso no es mucho que considerar cuando las cosas van bien en nuestra vida y tomar nuestra cruz es teórico. ¿Pero qué pasa cuando alguien nos lastima y ni siquiera lo piensan o cuando la debilidad y el dolor son parte diaria de nuestra vida? Escuchar no siempre es fácil de hacer.

Pero Jesús dice, “Yo les conozco.” Nos conoce totalmente. Sabe cada vez que hemos escogido ser fieles en vez de pecadores. Sabe los momentos que hemos hecho algo bien en su nombre, aun cuando nadie lo vea. Aun cuando somos imperfectos, cuando nos alejamos de lo que Dios quiere que seamos, conoce nuestro corazón, que si tan solo fuéramos fuertes, si supiéramos más, nuestro corazón quisiera amarle aun en nuestro pecado.

“Me siguen.” Tenemos que admitir que no siempre somos los mejores en seguir a Jesús. Él es el modelo del perdón, nosotros preferimos mantener resentimientos. Él es el modelo de humildad, silenciosamente sirviendo a otros, nosotros preferimos hacer las cosas a nuestra manera y no tener que hacer algo que no nos gusta. Ignoramos las oportunidades de hacer el bien y excusamos nuestras debilidades al escoger hacer el mal. Jesús no se desanima porque no somos perfectos. Estamos aquí, no porque alguien nos esté forzando sino porque hemos decidido seguir a Jesús, estar a sus pies, pedirle perdón y escuchar su Palabra. Él siempre está ante nosotros, llamándonos por nuestro nombre.

“Les doy la vida eterna.” Piensa en la escena que describe la segunda lectura, la multitud ante el trono de Dios es tan grande que no se puede contar. Cuando Dios decidió creamos, nos dice Jesús que ya había preparado un lugar para nosotros en medio de la multitud. Nuestro lugar ahí, ya había sido preparado mucho antes que decidiéramos hacer algo bueno para merecerlo, o hacer algo que nos separara de Dios. Es la voluntad de Dios que estemos siempre con El, es por eso que no podemos desanimarnos por nuestras debilidades. El Buen Pastor solo nos pide que seamos un buen seguidor y él nos llevara a casa.
